

CV – MONTSERRAT TORREMORELL

Montse Torremorell, DVM, PhD is professor and chair of the Veterinary Population Medicine Department, College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Minnesota. She joined the University in 2009 in an endowed chair to improve animal health. Her work focuses on the transmission and control of infectious diseases of pigs with emphasis on influenza and other devastating diseases. Her work contributes to animal and public health, food security and the sustainability of food animal production systems.